Parent Involvement Held Scouting Need

Recently, an article appeared in this paper stating that parents rap the lack of action of Scout leaders pertaining to the arrest of an assistant Cubmaster on child molestation charges and the responsibility of leaders. The issue was whether or not a meeting or special program should be held for all parents and members of Pack 314.

It first must be understood that scouting leaders at the unit level are volunteers who have committed their personal time to work with children. They are not compensated in any way. They volunteer their time to be den leaders, Cubmasters, etc. Training is limited to the Cub Scout program as it pertains to boys advancing in rank and the various ideals and concepts of Cub scouting and the ways to accomplish this.

Scouting can not take the place of parents. In fact, Cub scouting is dependent on the involvement of parents in the total program for their son. While Cub Scout leaders receive training for their specific volunteer roles, they are not trained or qualified to deal with problems such as the psychological effects of child abuse.

There are professionals who are qualified to work with youth to assist them to understand this situation. The volunteer leaders are in a difficult situation trying to work with the boys but also please the parents. The Boy Scouts of America had developed a program called "Child Abuse, Let's Talk About It". The emphasis is on the involvement of parents and their sons. Scouting believes that programs which deal with sensitive subjects such as child abuse, must be the primary responsibility of parents.

Volunteer leaders, like any responsible adult, do not condone and specifically reject such malicious conduct. But they are not the primary source of program information. If parents decide they need a program for their sons, it may be arranged with or without the leaders. In fact, it is the parents' responsibility to review the child abuse program first prior to involving their children, not just the leaders.

The Boy Scouts of America do not ask parents to blindly trust volunteer leaders with their children. In fact, we request and expect responsible parents to become directly involved, know your son's den leader, Cubmaster, join the pack committee, participate in meetings and outings and voice your opinions and concerns.

However, remember the leaders working with your boys are volunteers. If you are critical of the program, then volunteer, take the training and join the ranks of adult leaders.

Our good faith, reasonable efforts on behalf of all concerned in this unfortunate incident continues in close cooperation with the leadership of Pack 314.

Molestation Case Probed by Police

A 31-year-old father of three has been arrested by county police on charges of child molestation.

The arrest followed an investigation by Detectives James Heyl and Donald Fox, acting on a report from parents of one of the alleged victims.

Police have charged the Kennedy Avenue resident with four counts of involuntary deviate sexual intercourse, three counts of incest, one count of sexual abuse of children and three counts of indecent assault.

As the arrest involved incest, the name of the suspect was not released in order to protect the identity of his child, who reportedly is one of the victims.

According to Detective Fox, the parents had initially contacted the county's Children and Youth Services and were not satisfied with their handling of the complaint. The parents then called county police.

After talking with three of the alleged victims, police obtained a warrant for the arrest of the man.

County police, assisted by the city Police Department, are continuing their investigation to determine whether there are any additional incidents involving other children.

Detective Fox said the boys reportedly assaulted were between the ages of 9 and 12. He also said the majority of assaults reportedly took place at the home of the suspect.

Because the suspect is affiliated with the Cub Scout program, troop leaders met last night to plan a special program in which the county police would be asked to present a program explaining sexual abuse to the scouts.

The suspect was arraigned in Night Court and remanded to the County Jail to await a preliminary hearing. Bond was set at $25,000.

Slattery, who met yesterday with the defendants' attorneys, told them to submit their request in writing. He said he will give it "serious consideration" and make a prompt decision. After deliberating about four hours today, a jury of six men and six women ordered the hospital, Dr. Richard Deitrick, a gynecologist, Dr. Katherine Lamb, a pediatrician, and the Century Medical Association, a medical group Deitrick belongs to, to pay the money to John and Judy Kalakos.

The Kalakos' daughter, Kristen, 4, cannot swallow properly because of a inch-long cut in her throat when she was born.

She still chokes on her saliva, turns blue and has to be turned upside down to clear her airway, said her parents, John and Judy Kalakos. Although the hole healed a few weeks after Kristen was born, there's no medically guaranteed way to correct the swallowing problem, Mrs. Kalakos said.

Jury foreman Dave Buskirk said testimony and evidence during the 6-day trial convinced him the injury occurred because of "repeated suctioning" of a device used to clear a newborn's mouth and throat. "It was

Duquesne man charged with molesting 5 Cub Scouts

An assistant Cub Scout master from Duquesne is charged with sexually molesting five Scouts during overnight visits to his house.

Michael J. Cseripko, 31, of 1218 Kennedy Ave., faces a preliminary hearing Thursday before District Justice Albert Belan on three counts each of involuntary deviate sexual intercourse and indecent assault.

An electrician by trade, Cseripko is the father of three children. He has been in the County Jail in lieu of $25,000 cash since his arrest Wednesday by county Detectives Donald Fox and James Heyl.

Cseripko has served as a volunteer with the Cub Scout pack of 60 youths since September, when he returned to Duquesne after two years in Connecticut, said Anthony Brock, executive director of the East Valley Area Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

The council serves more than 5,000 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers in 47 communities in Allegheny County.

The arrest comes at a time when the Boy Scouts of America is embarking on a national program to make children and parents more aware of sexual abuse, Brock noted. "It can happen anywhere," he said.

In an interview with the detectives, Cseripko admitted molesting the boys, who range in age from 9 to 11, during overnight visits to his house in December and January, according to an affidavit the detectives filed.

The boys allegedly were fondled and sometimes molested as they slept, the affidavit states.

THE FACTS:

On March 19, a Mike Cseripko, Assistant Cubmaster Pack 314, West Mifflin, Pa., was arrested and is being held at the Allegheny County Jail on $25,000 bail. He has been charged with indecent assault and deviant intercourse.

Authorities indicate his actions involve Cub Scouts. They also claim to have photographs of his activity. Mr. Cseripko has admitted to previous involvement with children in Nagatuck, Connecticut. His wife and son were also registered with Pack 109 while they lived in that city. (Scout Executive Don Hall in Hartford and the pastor of the church that sponsored the pack have been notified.) The police in Nagatuck are investigating. Initial investigation of pack 109 records fails to identify the one youngster who has been identified by name.

The situation came to the attention of authorities as the result of a school child abuse awareness program in which one of the  children indicated a condition which was described during the program occurred within the family.

ACTION OR RECOMMENDATIONS:

Contact has been made with the two Scout executives and the area director. Each has been advised on handling the crisis. We will await further information. The area director has been advised of public relations support available.

Registration is being suspended pending the outcome.
